

THE BIG GUN.

It Weighs in the Neighborhood of Thirty Tons

And Fires Nearly Six Hundred Pounds of Metal Nine Miles.

It is a Breach-Loader of High Power, and is Twenty-Nine Feet in Length. The Gun Can be Loaded and Fired in Five Minutes.

New York, Aug. 15.—The first official test of the ten-inch disappearing pneumatic gun carriage was made at the United States ordnance proving grounds at Sandy Hook.

The tests were made under the supervision of the board of ordnance and fortifications. They were directed by Capt. Frank Heath, in charge of the proving grounds, assisted by Lieut. Wheeler of the ordnance department.

At exactly 11:30 the first shot was fired.

The gun is a breach-loader of high power, is twenty-nine feet in length, weighs thirty tons and fires a projectile weighing 573 pounds.

The gun is constructed of two full arms, and when raised to a firing position is at a height of eight feet above the carriage.

To load and make ready for firing requires only five minutes. It is all done by compressed air manipulated by one man.

The projectile was placed on the gun carriage by the turning of a small wheel the tray was raised to the breach of the gun and the projectile was rammed home by a telescopic rammer. Two sacks of powder followed the projectile into the powder chamber.

The trials contained 180 pounds. The elevation was three degrees. The time required to bring the gun down to the buffers was one minute and fifteen seconds.

The second shot was fired at the minute of 12 o'clock at an elevation of twenty degrees.

The projectile contained 250 pounds of powder, a service charge such as is used in time of war.

At an elevation of twenty degrees the projectile splashed the sea nine miles away. When the gun exploded it cast up less than ten seconds, had sunk gently on the buffers into loading position. It is with a charge like this that the carriage is supposed to work perfectly. This was the highest elevation at which it was ever used with the new high-power gun in this country.

The third shot was fired at an elevation of three degrees, and the projectile, contained 100 pounds of powder.

The recoil brought the gun within eighteen inches of the buffers, and the time required to get it in loading position was two minutes and forty-five seconds.

The fourth shot was at an elevation of five degrees and the recoil was seven inches above the buffers. Time required to bring the gun down to loading position was one minute and fifteen seconds.

The fifth shot was fired at an elevation of fifteen degrees. The charge was thirty pounds, and the gun receded within three inches of the buffers and rebounded to a height of two inches above the buffers, and got the gun into loading position in nine and fifteen seconds. The seventh shot was fired at an elevation of three degrees with 210 pounds of powder.

Eight shots two hundred and twenty pounds of gunpowder at an elevation of ten degrees. Ninth shot, one hundred pounds of powder at twenty degrees. Tenth, one hundred pounds of powder at an elevation of twenty degrees.

The time for the elevation of the gun from zero to twenty degrees was thirty-one seconds; time for depression from fifteen degrees to zero, the same seconds. It was expected to traverse 120 degrees, fifty-four seconds.

When the gun is in a firing position it is about fifteen feet from the ground. Much delay was occasioned in loading vessels, and as Capt. Heath did not wish to sink any more schooners, firing was done only when the coast was clear.

The projectiles used were about three and one-half feet long and were of cast-iron. There will be two more official tests of the carriage, and the tests, in the language of the contract, with such charges as may be used to test the working and adjustment of the several parts of the carriage. The next test, which will be on Tuesday, will be with ten charges, full service charges, and the elevation may be determined by the board. This will be under the direction of Maj. Comly, as the representative of the board. The board as a whole will not attend. The third test will be ten rounds, with full service charges, as rapidly as the gun can be served. The cost of the carriage, if accepted, will be $4,000.

IN HOC SIGNO VINCES.

A Word to Republicans.

The hope of the party lies in the expansion of our statehood republican press. The Republican who reads or otherwise helps to support a Democratic paper to the exclusion of one of his own party newspapers is untrue to the Republicans cause.

Unconditional support to the National Republican League.

J. S. CLARKSON, President.
A. B. HUMPHREY, Secretary.

PROBABLY we will not have any war with Canada any more than we had with Chile, but probably Canada will allow American vessels to go through the Welland Canal on the same terms as do Canadian vessels, as she is bound by treaty to do.

AMERICAN locomotives shipped to New South Wales have been criticized severely on the ground that they were incapable of doing the work required of them. The critics were probably jealous agents of British locomotives who found themselves unable to market their goods in competition with the magnificent Yankee products. So a Royal Commission has been sitting to determine the truth of the charges, and found after examining 50 witnesses that testimony was overwhelming in favor of the American locomotives.

THE Democrats put forward their strongest man in Senator CARLISLE of Kentucky to reply to Senator ALDRICH's crushing showing of the good results.

ARGUMENTS ON THE TARIFF. Law. Senator CARLISLE with Senator ALDRICH was a member of the sub-committee of the Senate Finance Committee which investigated wages and prices before and after the enactment of the McKinley law. He asserted to all the methods employed in that inquiry and he did not cast a shadow of doubt on any of the results of the inquiry. He admitted that it had been fully and conclusively demonstrated by that inquiry that living was cheaper and wages higher after than before the enactment of the McKinley law. Then he went on to claim that this would have been so whether the McKinley law was enacted or not.

This admission from the best equipped Democrat on the subject of the Tariff takes the very heat and vitality out of the Democratic onslaught upon the Tariff. The ammunition of that onslaught has been a failure to maintain wages, higher prices for necessities of life, except farm products from the home farms.

In his speech of acceptance CLEVELAND wailed in a lugubrious strain, "our workingmen are still told the tale, oft repeated in spite of its faintly, that the existing Protective Tariff is a boomer to them, and that under its beneficent operation the wages must increase." Again, "we see the farmer listening to a delusive story that fills his mind with visions of advance, while his pocket is robbed by the stealthy hand of high Protection." In still another period he says, "Poring our eyes to the plain sense of the word we see them unbroken compromisers with a Tariff system that unjustly and relentlessly demands from the in the purchase of the necessities and comforts of life, an amount scarcely met by the wages of hard and steady labor."

And yet Senator CARLISLE, the ablest and best informed man in his party on the Tariff, gives his unqualified endorsement of the accuracy of an investigation and a report which shows: That wages in September, 1894, were .75 of 1 per cent. higher than in June 1893; and the price of farm products were 16.5 per cent. higher in September of 1894, than in June 1893; that the cost of living or the prices of the "necessaries of life and comforts of life" were 3.4 per cent less in May, 1892, than in June, 1893.

What is left then of GROVER CLEVELAND and of the Democratic cause for opposition against the Protective Tariff.

At the election in Alabama the other day, it is said in the news report, there was the largest vote ever cast. It is even reported that a large part of ALABAMA ELECTION. what the Southern chivalry call the "dummingers" voted.

In view of this extraordinary fact there are several points about this election that are worthy of especial notice.

The "dummingers" who voted for the most part voted the Democratic ticket. It is probable that many of them in other parts of the South would be heard from as having voted on election day if this were the ticket they voted.

The way it happened in Alabama was that there were two Democratic tickets in the field, and neither side felt sure that its ticket could be elected without some "digger" votes. Both tickets were white, both were Democratic, and, of course, the whole business was chivalry. It is reported in the news from Alabama that one of these chivalry announced to the chivalry that any one who interfered with the "diggers" that wanted to vote its ticket would be shot. "By gawd, sah!"

From the fact that Alabama cast the largest vote in her history is a fairly logical conclusion that the "dummingers" were not interfered with to any extent.

The worthy gentlemen who are now justly exercised with the fear of a "force" bill, Federal bayonets at the polls, and "nigger" supremacy in the South, have no right to voice their alarm with alarm this day. In Southern politics, the case of Alabama there has been a want of force, if not an actual display of it, if the "dummingers" were not allowed to vote. The "dummingers" actually have voted. This would seem to constitute a dangerously radical tendency of things, with threats of all sorts of dire results from what we hear from opponents of the "force" bill.

The two points in the case that are calculated to avenge any are that the threats of violence come from Southern chivalry and the "dummingers" voted the Democratic ticket.

Particulars in the Crime.

Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette.—The man who openly advises assassination in his newspaper is morally as bad as he who acts on the advice and pulls the trigger.

The Rights of Widows.

A widow is as free to enclose in his business and to bind herself by legal obligations as a man, says Mary A. Green in The Chautauquan. But her right to a share in the property of her husband is not a right arising out of the previous marriage relation, and is affected by the ancient laws concerning that relation.

At her husband's death she is entitled to the use and income for her life of one-third of his real estate, and this "dower" is her right whether she had only child or none. The rest of the real estate goes to the husband's heirs.

The widow's share of personal property in each estate is not to be had by her child or the children two-thirds. If no children are living, or their descendants, she has a larger share, one-third in some cases.

A widow is legally competent to transact business, she can be appointed administratrix of her husband's estate and guardian of the children.

Keenly Camp-meeting.

A writer in The St. Louis Republic thinks that camp-meetings originated in Kentucky in the year 1800 at Gasper River Church in Logan county and that the earliest camp-meeting in Kentucky, revival early in the century, it is claimed that both Presbyterians and Methodists participated in the earlier meetings, though it is not known what was done upon a distinctly a Methodist institution. The great revival is one of the curious things in history and its effects are still to be seen in other religious camp-meetings, gathering these religious open air gatherings to have had the origin abroad in America. Something of the spirit of the old camp-meetings still exists in the West, Kentucky when Kentucky was yet an infant Commonwealth. There was no High Bridge caravans in the name of religion in that day.—Advertiser-Journal.

IRON HALL SECRETS.

There was no newspaper in Cincinnati. He was in opposition to every thing—Davis and Walker will drop out of office.

INVESTIGATION. Int., Aug. 15.—Supreme Justice Somerby, of the Iron Hall, and would-be Andjister Sayre were not on hand when the receivership case was called Saturday. The attorney and court went into consultation and it was reported that the attorney, who was to be appointed by agreement, was to be appointed in a mysterious consultation much of the forenoon.

Mr. Sayre finally appeared and was put on a witness stand to explain why he had not been appointed as supreme adjuster by Somerby on pledge that he should support all that Somerby did for the good of the order.

Saturday's testimony concluded with Sayre. Just after he left the stand it was announced that the executive committee had confirmed his appointment as supreme adjuster. He was released because he was supposed to have become friendly to Davis and Walker. The latter will drop out as supreme officers next week, probably before before the next meeting.

It was learned late Saturday afternoon that the affairs of the Iron Hall have undergone a change. Efforts are now being made toward a compromise of the case in court and internal dissensions. The board of directors publicized the suit for a receivership or the temporary appointment of one, with Davis and Walker to be retained as supreme officers.

ST. This globe is 100 feet in circumference and all the continents and the large islands of the oceans will be painted on its surface. The oceans, seas and inlets of the world will be depicted by incandescent lights.

It will take for this purpose 5,000 incandescent lamps of twelve-candle-power each. The effect of this monster globe lighted up will be a magnificent one.

Keenly Camp-meeting.

RALPH, N. C., Aug. 15.—The camp-meeting has captured the alliance in this state, and the latter will support no man who is for Cleveland. It is only on Cleveland they make the fight, as they will put up full state tickets of their own in the field, and the democrats will at once break the alliance.

DYNAMITE.

Aristocratic Resort at Ostend, Belgium, Shattered.

Three Persons Fatally and Several Others Seriously Injured.

The Died Thought to Be Work of Anarchists—Dismay and Terror Among the Fashionable Patrons of that Resort—The King in Danger.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 15.—Great excitement prevailed Saturday over a dynamite outrage that has resulted in three persons being fatally injured. Ostend, the favorite resort for English aristocrats, is a gay place. The king has a summer place there and the visitors to the baths and other attractions include the nobility from all parts of Europe.

The old Kaiser William, of Germany, was a frequent visitor to Ostend, and his son, the present Kaiser, does not follow his grandfather's example, many noble German families still make Ostend their summer habitation.

At present Ostend is thronged with visitors. One of the most popular is the Count de France Albert, called after the late prince consort of England, and much frequented by English sojourners.

Saturday, while a number of people were in the cafe, a dynamite explosion exploded near the windows.

The force of the explosion was terrific. The cafe was wrecked, the windows shattered, the tables broken and plates and glasses smashed and hurled about the room. Many persons in the cafe were injured, some by the flying missiles, and three were fatally injured.

The spectacle was the most horrible ever seen in Ostend. People came running out of the cafe, their faces streaming with blood, shouting to the dismay and terror of the fashionables that had gathered at the sound of the explosion. The police rushed in and found several persons lying in the wreck with serious wounds; one of them unconscious, another almost dead, the third to the copious flow of blood from a gash in his temple.

The wounded were at once conveyed to the hospital, or their stopping places, and efforts were made to ascertain who was guilty of the crime.

So far, however, no reliable clue as to the criminals.

It is thought that perhaps they were anarchists and perpetrated the outrage in revenge for the severe penalties recently imposed on Belgian anarchists.

FEARFUL WORK

Buying Twenty Workmen—One Thousand Pounds of Coal—Two Men Burned to Death.

GALLIVAN, O., Aug. 15.—John Niday had a large fine thonghored shorthorn, which was about four years old. He had raised the animal, and it was not until the morning of Saturday, Aug. 13, that he was recovered in this city for a barrel casket for Jekel Mathias, a farmer, who was said to have died of typhoid fever. An investigation of the case reported that the farmer's wife, some two months ago, had given birth to a Negro child. A Negro was evidently the child's father. Her husband became furious and gave his wife a severe scolding so that she left ill for a day. After the scolding, however, the husband again took violently ill and died in great agony two days later. It now transpires that the woman poisoned her husband and has, since the burial, lived with the Negro who caused her ruin. A lynching is probable.

A BUILDING COLLAPSES, Hurting Twenty Workmen—One Thousand Pounds of Coal—Two Men Burned to Death.

On Aug. 13, a brick building, which was being erected, fell Friday afternoon, burying twenty men beneath the ruins. The accident occurred by the sudden giving way of a derrick causing the entire structure of massive beams and timbers to collapse. John C. Ward, 41, of New York, was killed. G. H. Taylor, of the Boston Globe, $1,000, and W. M. Simzler, of the Philadelphia Record, $1,000.

The injured, of those taken from the ruins are of the most terrible nature, the limbs of some being torn off, while the faces and bodies of others were crushed almost beyond recognition.

A Frightful Accident at a Festival. NARLES, Aug. 15.—The festival of St. Anezelina was closed at Cesa Sunday evening with fireworks in the market place. A large crowd had gathered around the spot where the fireworks were set off, a bunch of which exploded terribly. Hilarly took to his heels and barely escaped with his life by getting into a brush heap that was near by, where he was safe until he reloaded his gun and put six more shots into him. Five of the sparks shot passed into his skull, from which the brain oozed.

ASHLAND, W. Va., Aug. 15.—Three men named Pinney, Schuster and Temple named were hunting Sunday. Both barrels were discharged, striking Pinney in the abdomen, killing him instantly. Temple had drawn a revolver, and just as Pinney had shot him in the chest, Temple and Schuster were driven to take part in the drills and evolutions.
